EGYPT CENTRAL

"You Make Me Sick"

After months of infighting, homelessness, lineup changes within the band and contracts gone awry, Egypt Central was finally able to release their first, self-titled album in January, 2008. Their single, "You Make Me Sick," feels genuine, and is the sort of song that will drive customers into your club (it's all about being in love with someone that they can't stand any more) as well as give them something to enjoy while they're being entertained.
