JANUARY 2016

BE

Yourself

Welcome to the revolution: As fashion, following the world at large, embraces a new era of inclusion and diversity and FREEDOM, we gathered, for our opening story, a few dozen emergent musicians, athletes, artists, writers, dancers, and models—the cream of the CREATIVE CROP—to showcase the season's most EXPRESSIVE pieces: real clothes that reflect real life.

Be Yourself

The muted sartorial palette proves to be the perfect foil for our cast's outsize ambitions, accomplishments, and élan. FROM FAR LEFT: Singer Andra Day (in a Levi's jacket); actor Nina Arianda (in Gucci); Vinyl's Juno Temple (in a The Arrivals jacket); writer/actor Donald Glover (a.k.a. musician Childish Gambino); actor Elie Bamber (in Organic by John Patrick); artist Petra Collins (in Michael Kors Collection); and model Anna Ewers (in Rodarte). Makeup, Hannah Murray. Details, see In This Issue. For more on our cast, go to Vogue.com.
