June 30, 2016 - (Burbank, CA) - Fresh from their Sold Out Ryman Auditorium Nashville show, The Wild Feathers are proud to announce that they will join forces with Band of Horses on tour as special guests in August. Both bands will also perform at the Splendour in the Grass Festival next month in Australia. Please see below for all of The Wild Feathers' upcoming tour dates. Tickets are on sale now at <http://www.thewildfeathers.com/shows>.

"Help Me Out," will be the next official single from LONELY IS A LIFETIME. Expect a new video for the track soon. Keep an eye on <http://www.thewildfeathers.com> for details.

The Wild Feathers' acclaimed album, LONELY IS A LIFETIME, is out now and continues to command critical praise:

"Lonely Is A Lifetime,' proves these tunesmiths' ability to revitalize wearied tropes and bring them into new alt-rock territory. Lifetime,' combines Laurel Canyon-era elements with alt-rock aesthetics to reveal what The Feathers do best: refer to the past, write for the present and look to the future."
- Nashville Scene

"The Wild Feathers boast three formidable songwriters and four singers, in the tradition of great '60s and '70s hydra-headed acts like Crosby Stills, Nash & Young, and Fleetwood Mac. While each Feathers vocalist and writer remains distinct in timbre and sensibility, they meld with surprising consistency. There's no frontman here - just frontmen, creating an unbreakable showing of brotherly force." - Relix Magazine

"The Wild Feathers expand their sound. 'Overnight,' is unalloyed, punding modern rock, followed by stacked guitars and pulsing effects. The Feathers revert to what got them noticed in the first place: classic hook-filled American rock, centered on the bands's signature vocal interplay and harmonizing." - The Boston Globe

"With three singers, it's easy to draw vocal comparisons to Crosby, Stills & Nash, while the electric guitar work reminds one of Neil Young and Pink Floyd." - USA Today

In other news, Spotify Sessions: Live from Spotify SXSW 2016 featuring The Wild Feathers; will be released on July 22nd, exclusively via Spotify. Click here for further information.
