June 22, 2017 (Burbank, CA) - Multiplatinum-certified and critically acclaimed Norwegian duo Nico & Vinz share their brand new track "Intrigued" today. It's now available at all digital retailers and streaming platforms via Warner Bros. Records. Get it <https://WBR.lnk.to/Intrigued>

Once again elegantly weaving together pop, hip-hop, rock, and traditional African styles, "Intrigued" serves as another unpredictable and undeniable anthem from the pair.

About the song, they commented, "'Intrigued' is a record that we are really excited to release. We're passionate about the sound and the meaning behind it. We believe it will give fans a look at another side of Nico & Vinz that they may have not been exposed to yet."

Accompanying the song, the duo also unveiled a cinematic music video for "Intrigued." Directed by Moni Vargas [Pharrell, Will Smith], the clip matches the track's energy with a fast-paced and captivating visual narrative that's as personal as it is powerful.

"We wanted to shoot a video that represented the raw emotion and reality of the song," added Nico & Vinz. "It's a very real glimpse into the personal emotions and feelings that we both had as well as our experiences writing the record. Everything-from the actresses to the furniture and the artwork that we pulled directly from our houses to accompany the video-gives people a glimpse into the men behind the record."

About Nico & Vinz:

Since their emergence in 2010, the union of Nico & Vinz has evolved in lock step alongside the Norwegian duo's music. 2014's "Am I Wrong" introduced the pair on the global stage, going RIAA triple-platinum and capturing #4 on the Billboard Hot 100. As their full-length debut Black Star Elephant [Warner Bros. Records] earned critical acclaim, they picked up "Best New Artist" at The Soul Train Awards and performed everywhere from Dancing with the Stars to the iHeartRadio Music Festival and ESSENCE Festival, in addition to global tours with Bruno Mars and Usher, as well as a Vancouver one-off with Taylor Swift. Meanwhile, the duo utilized their platform to promote change, gracing the stage of UNICEF's Snowflake Ball, the UN AIDS Gala in Switzerland, South Africa's World AIDS Day, Glamour's "The Power of an Educated Girl" in front of First Lady Michelle Obama and Academy Award® winner Charlize Theron, and the 2014 "National Christmas Tree Lighting" at the behest of the First Family. 2015 saw their Cornerstone EP garner praise from Vice, Mashable, Vibe, Huffington Post, and more in between spawning the hit "That's How You Know" [feat. Bebe Rexha & Kid Ink], which amassed 105 million Spotify streams and counting. Brightening their signature sonic collage of pop, urban, rock, and African styles, the vision invariably pushes boundaries yet again beginning with the new song "Intrigued."
