Clark teamed up with producers Junkie XL, Mike Elizondo and Sam de Jong to record their branded take on The Beatles' classic track at The Village Recorders in Los Angeles. The end result is a powerful, guitar-heavy update featuring Clarks' soulful vocal delivery and signature guitar impact.

"When the new Justice League trailer dropped it came with a soundtrack with The Beatles' classic 'Come Together'... [which] amped up the original track with a gush of adrenaline and a metallic sheen. The talent behind that rendition is none other than Justice League composer Junkie XL (aka Tom Holkenborg) and modern guitar hero Gary Clark Jr." – Consequence Of Sound

"Gary Clark Jr. gave his heavy, blues-blasted twist on The Beatles' classic "Come Together" tearing up the 1969 Abbey Road track that he re-imagined for the soundtrack to the Justice League film." --Billboard

"Gary Clark Jr. showcases his explosive, bluesy grit when he tackles his rendition of "Come Together" by The Beatles and has recorded a studio version of the song for the Warner Bros./DC motion picture Justice League." -- Paste
